WATERFORD FLAT

Birthplace of Artemus Ward and Ten Miles N. W. from Norway

Election passed off quietly with a good vote. One of the oldest people to vote, was Mrs. Ellen Green, eighty-seven years of age, but very young and smart for a lady with so many years to her credit.

Dr. Hubbard and his three children went to Hartford, Mass., on Saturday, to bring his mother to Waterford where she will spend the winter.

E. L. Stone hurt his thumb quite badly while reading meters.

The annual meeting of the Waterford Amateurs Club, for the rejection of officers, was held at the Artemus Ward Hall, on Tuesday evening, November 6th.

The attendance was large but there being no promising new material, all nominations were rejected and the old officers hold over for another year. There being no further business, labor was suspended, the music turned on and the election returns received. Refreshments were served from 10 p. m. to 3 a. m. The delegates were the result of a most appreciated "show", or more truthfully speaking, a "delicious" of from the wives and sweethearts of the members present. As an added attraction to the evening's entertainment, the worthy President, staged a dramatic game of sixty-three. Unfortunately, he showed a bad reversal of the members, that hereafter he confine his efforts at card playing to Old Maid or Skip Jack. At 3 a. m. feeling that the country was in need of some crabs, the meeting adjourned, sine die—annually, translated meaning, no sign of a dead one. This program comes from the front of Station W-A-N-C, the secretary announcing.

Careless Motorist Scorching His Shoes;

An appalling catastrophe was narrowly averted, Friday evening, when an 'Albion' Abner from New Hampshire stopped at Solari's for gas, then scratched a match to see if it would burn, or perhaps he came down from N. H. to shoot the works. Anyhow, he succeeded in spraying the surrounding area with flaming gas, set his boots afire (so no one could accuse him of having cold feet) and also gave the Fire Department a chance to demonstrate their remarkable ability, in reaching the scene of a conflagration and to display their accustomed prowess and efficiency as Fryeburg's foremost and finest fire fighting force. Luckily none of the curious and innocent bystanders were killed or maimed by an explosion as so often attends an occurrence of this kind; the hapless motorist was allowed to depart, to seek new fields of adventure and Mr. Solari's pulse is rapidly returning to normal.

T. W. Charles has installed a fine radio it up to 'current' expenses. Besides, Mr.

his batteries charged.

Speaking of radios, Tom Ridon has a

Can Reduce Such Fundamental Costs as

Labor
Taxes
Land

by locating
in the smaller centers of population

WHAT are the costs that vex the metropolitan factory?

LABOR—Inflated by high metropolitan costs of living and frequent turnover TAXES—mounting with each new assessment.

LAND—constantly becoming scarcer and more expensive.

ALL THE COSTS induced by congestion with its attendant delays, and inconvenience of traffic and shipping.

And another cost, perhaps unseen, but none the less at work—the draining of human energy sacrificed to congested living conditions.

In the small centers of population labor costs are lower because the wage dollar will buy more.
Production is more spirited, more interested, because living conditions are more pleasant and fatigue is lessened. Taxes are lower. Land is cheaper.

Present day transportation and the widespread interconnection of electric power have given the small town a metropolitan status with respect to markets and access to raw materials.
Such is the case with the hundreds of small communities to which ample, economical hydroelectric power is provided by the interconnected lines of the Central Maine Power Company system, which offer a variety of territorial characteristics.

new enterprises is one of encouragement and active
